DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Frase Farmhouse is a two part frame building covered with asbestos siding. The main part is two bays long and two deep with a large chimney on its northwest gable, the cap of which looks similar to a house on Rt. 50 southeast of Linkwood. The southwest windows retain original 9/6 and 6/6 sash while the southeast windows have 2/2 sash. There is a center door between the two bays of the southwest facade and another on the southeast side. A portion of porch remains, but it at one time extended on two sides.

The kitchen wing is three bays long, but has only one relatively modern dormer. On its gable is a small brick chimney and a leanto enclosed porch.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house is like some of the dwellings in the neck district, though its details are more frequently found on vernacular houses of this area. It is a good example of dwelling to include in the study of vernacular dwellings.
